Threats Of War Heard In Arab-Israeli Conflict

by Pierre J. Huss

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. Jan 28—(AP)—An Arab spokesman warned the United Nations Assembly Monday that a new war may break out unless Israel promptly and unconditionally pulls out of the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aqaba area.

ABDUL NOMEN RIFAI of Jordan voiced a stern demand for strict Israeli compliance with U. N. resolutions for a withdrawal of captured areas as the assembly began a new round of debate on the critical Middle East problem.

The 80-nation forum convened in face of an Israeli rebuff to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's report on Friday, opposing Israeli plans for continued administration of the Gaza Strip, as "negative and unconstructive." The Israelis are insisting on guarantees against Egyptian land hostilities or blockade in the Aqaba Gulf.

Rifai, who was joined by other Afro-Asian diplomats in demanding Israel's unconditional withdrawal from Gaza and Aqaba, endorsed Hammarskjold's recommendation for the posting of U. N. emergency troops on both sides of the Egyptian-Israeli frontier.

HOWEVER the Jordanian ambassador, who is presumed to have Egyptian views on the matter, ruled out the use of U. N. troops in the lower Gulf of Aqaba region, which commands the entrance to the waterway. Rifai said the forces should be "confined" to the frontier line.

Spokesmen for Jordan, Nepal and Ceylon also urged an immediate withdrawal by Israel. Ceylon delegate P. S. S. Gunawardene appealed to Israel "not to endanger world peace" by imposing conditions but also urged Egypt to help cooperate in a peaceful settlement of the problem.

RIFAI, declaring that Israel has no right to lay down any demands in connection with her withdrawal, warned that "hostilities will break out again in the Middle East" unless Israeli forces are promptly out of the disputed areas.

An American spokesman reaffirmed the U. S. view that Israel must withdraw without delay and completely behind the armistice lines." The spokesman added:

New Telephone System In Use

Installation of the new cam-pus switchboard went smoothly and has given the university bell system many improvements according to Evelyn Christensen, chief operator.

Opened at 6:30 a. m. Saturday by Western Electric workmen, the new board was placed in immediate use. Using this modern equipment in the basement of the Joseph F. Smith Family Living Center has eliminated intra-campus dialing.

This means that students in the dormitories can dial academic numbers without getting an outside line and being routed through the Provo telephone system.

Operators on the new board handle no intra-campus calls. Under the old system the operators shared outgoing and incoming trunks for both campus housing and academic calls. Dial trucks are not on the new board and number lines should be much easier to obtain, according to Mrs. Christensen.

Change of numbers includes the dropping of the campus housing number "FR 3-5500 Ext." campus and academic calls come in on the same number, FR 3-1940.

People have been most cooperative about the change of extension numbers reports Mrs. Christensen. But the operators are swamped with queries about number changes since the new directories are not in full use yet.

One of the major advantages of the new switchboard is an automatic ringing system. Instead of manually ringing numbers on campus the operator no longer has to worry about ringing the telephone while plugging in others.

Prison Play Opens Wednesday With Experimental Cube Sets

SLEEP of Prisoners, a play by Christopher Fry will be presented Wednesday at 8:15 p. m. in the auditorium of College Hall. It will run through Saturday.

The play is the first "experimental" production presented by the Brigham Young University Theatre Directed by Dr. Harold H. Hansen of the BYU speech faculty, the drama is an impressively religious one, and was successfully produced in England and New York.

UNDER THE "new media of experimentation a cube-type setting is designed to present the ideas.

The story is about four prisoners of war locked up in a church in enemy territory Confined in this way their problems are magnified as they struggle to understand themselves and the world.

The all male cast, which consists of four characters is highly dramatic, and the action comes in a sequence of dreams in which each prisoner demonstrates his own inner responses to events—projecting himself, his companions, and the problems they face on to a spiritual plane.

PRIVATE David King is played by Charles Whitman, Montpelier, Ida. Corporal Joseph Adams is portrayed by Neal Berth, Twin Falls, Ida. Le Grant De Bry, Los Angeles, Calif. takes the part of Private Peter Able Gary Stewart, East Kaysville, plays the part of Private Tim Meadows.

COSTUMES are under the direction of Dorothy Whitaker Fyvie Joan Pryor, John Hicken and Betsy Van Wagoner are in charge of lights. Sound is being supervised by Martha Adams and Lorna Hart.

According to Dr. Hansen, admission is 50 cents, and special rates will be given to groups.

BYU Studentbody Officers Tour Universities, Get Ideas

ON RECENT TOURS of other universities in the Skyline conference, studentbody officers of Brigham Young University have encountered many new ideas to aid them in administrative and planning work.

Studentbody President Monroe McKay said that the problem of having a more complete representation in the student senate has been solved in other universities by electing senators from the colleges, instead of from the four classes.

HE SAID it is felt that a better representation of the student public can be attained in this manner, but that there were other problems in connection with this government form which made it undesirable. "It will have to be studied in order to see if this is a better all-around government form for BYU," he said.

McKay also stated that many of the problems at BYU, as far as the physical plant is concerned, simply do not exist in other universities. Most of the other schools visited are equipped with a more complete social climate and with more floor space per student.

THE HONOR system is unique at BYU, McKay found. Students have more freedom and there is "say so" in how BYU is run than students have at other universities throughout the Skyline conference, McKay said.

Darrel Walker, studentbody second vice-president, said that one of the best things he observed while on the tour the idea of "international week." Walker said "We have a wealth of knowledge which can be obtained about people from foreign lands here at BYU."

ALL THEY NEED is a chance to perform and display to us the customs and folkways of their native lands. This idea is incorporated at other universities, and should be used here," Walker added.

Pat Strong, studentbody first vice president, said she felt we have a stronger, more unified feeling at BYU than they do other universities. Backed the fact that most of us have some goals, and the same serious affiliations, "we are a nature as a student group are many other university ctentbodies," Miss Strong s

MISS STRONG found the assembly-devotional program unique at BYU. Many other universities do not have an assembly program at all, nor any set aside for assemblies dev the week.

Miss Strong also observed many other universities ha bigger and better" phy plant. She said that "we as dentbody officers are loo forward to our own building gram to solve the crowded ditions at BYU."

KELVIN CULLIMORE, dentbody business manager, from the financial aspect has a more ideal situation BYU than other univer visited. "Although other sc dentbody officers are bu work with, Cullimore seen students have more trol over their budget than do at other universities. Th makes our budget, have our own choice as to spend it."

Party Tog Fashions From Paris Emphasize Charm, Shun Daring

PARIS, (INS)—Junior clothes from Paris for the 1957 party season stress grace and delicacy and shun provocation or daring.

Here is how such experts as Dior, Chanel and Fath dress mademoiselle to dance a waltz a mambo or to rock 'n roll: full-skirted dresses with hem-lines about 10 inches off the floor and a bouffant look, rather than sheath styles.

You can apply these Paris styles to your own wardrobe and give a 1957 touch to last year's dance dress or an outfit you buy off-the-peg.

For the Paris touch concentrate on the waistline. Buy two yards of two-and-a-half inch wide satin or moire ribbon. Choose it in a dark shade if your dress is light colored or in pastel tone if it is dark.

Fasten the ribbon around the waist as a belt. With the two long ends you make one of those many-look-bows which trim early or gift boxes. Secure the bow center with a jewel-pin. You should have enough ribbon left for two loose dangling ends of skirt hem length. Buy a garland of roses and stitch the flowers to the front hemline of your petticoat. The roses should just peep out under the hem as a romantic trimming.

Accepted Prom Attire For Men Not Limited To Traditional Tux

by Margaret Hunter
Daily Universe Society Writer

ACCEPTED MEN'S attire for the Junior Prom will include tux, dinner jacket, ROTC uniform, or a dark suit.

Tropical weights in fabric are most common for formal clothes.

Fabrics that are most practical for either the jackets, slacks, or tuxedos are rayon, rayon and cotton, rayon and linen, or a dressy light weight wool.

While tuxedos are important for winter formal wear, the dinner jacket will be prominent at the Junior Prom. While dinner jackets have been of most high popularity, but new pastels will also be extensively worn.

SLACKS OF midnight blue or black have a silk band on the side. These slacks have no cuff. Rayon or wool are the fabrics most commonly used. Suspenders are always worn.

Variety in style of the formal costume can be achieved in the choice of shirts. All are light-weight white pima cotton and have French cuffs.

The stiffened fronts of French pleats, or lace give a distinctive look to the formal suit. Three studs in the front and cuff links must be worn with these shirts.

CUMMERBUNDS and matching bow ties add final touch to the costume. Traditionally these are black or maroon but now more color is popular. Figured plaids, and stripes of red, blue, green, grey, or black and white are as numerous as plain colors.

Silk shantung for the cummerbunds is most popular and lasting, but other fabrics such as cotton are commonly used. Many times matching handkerchiefs come with the set.

LONG NARROW ties have been popular, but lately the shorter ones are becoming fashionable again.

Shoes for formal wear should be black and as plain a nature as possible. A plain toe, or a toe cap is best. Slip-ons are also good.

Black socks are of most importance to finish off the full costume.

Home Team Still Holds Advantage As Torrid Skyline Race Rolls On

by Jerry Cunningham

Skyline proverb for '57: He who wins road games wins conference crown.

Twenty league games have been played thus far and 16 of them have been won by the home team.

Brigham Young University has copped two of the four games won by the visiting team. That's why the Cougars top the conference with a 4-1 record.

This week the Brighams' road ability gets another test—this time from Denver on Saturday and then New Mexico the following Monday.

Only two conference games were played last week. BYU whomped Utah State 82-78 in Provo and Wyoming took it on the chin from Colorado A & M 64-49 in Ft Collins.

The other Skyliners won 3 of 4 games against non-league foes to Saturday night games Montana drubbed Montana State 60-46, Denver clobbered Colorado College 93-56 and BYU stopped St. Mary's winning ways, 69-65

Utah blew a substantial lead and lost 69 to 68 to Oklahoma City, rated 19th in the nation.

The second verse of the "Colorado College vs Denver" song will be sung in Denver on Wednesday.

Surprising Colorado A & M visits Utah on Thursday as Utah State's re-vamped Aggies jaunt to Denver and Montana will host Wyoming's disappointing Cowboys.

No games are scheduled for Friday, but Saturday finds Wyoming at Utah, Utah State at New Mexico, BYU at Denver and Colorado A & M at Montana.

Just two games separate first-place BYU from Denver and Wyoming who are tied for seventh place.

Colorado A & M slipped unobtrusively into a tie with Montana for second place as the other Skyliners were clobbering one another. The Rams whipped Wyoming, a pre-season favorite, 64-49 Saturday in Ft. Collins.

BYU and Utah State, battling for undisputed possession of first place, grabbed the spotlight Friday. The Aggies put up a good scrap until Hal Theus their jumping phenomenon fouled out.

Utah still has the best overall record, 11-5. BYU has won 11 of 17. Montana's 7-5 record makes the Silvertips the only other Skyline team out of the red.

Thirdplace Colorado A & M is 6-10, Utah StState 7-9, Denver 3-9 nd New Mexico 3-11.

Wyoming's Cowboys, who were supposed to be big things this year have the poorest overall record (4-12) of any Skyline team.
